♣ THE IDEA

Make Your Wedding Unforgettable

A wedding day is made up of hundreds of small moments, and it's often the unexpected ones people remember longest. Close-up magic gives your day a handful of those moments on purpose.

Pete works right at your guests' elbows rather than from a stage, producing cards from nowhere, reading minds, and leaving small groups of people looking at each other in disbelief. There's no announcement and no interruption. It simply becomes part of how your wedding feels: friendly, interactive and a little bit impossible.

Why Close-Up Magic?

Magic isn't just entertainment. It's a way of bringing people together.

- ◆ Gives guests something to talk about
- ♥ Breaks the ice between people meeting for the first time
- ◆ Works for every age and every personality
- ♥ Never pulls guests away from your wedding
- ♣ Brings different groups of guests together
- ♠ Fills the natural gaps in your running order
- ♣ Needs no stage, no sound system, no set-up
- ♠ Creates moments guests are still talking about weeks later

Wedding Breakfast

2 HOURS OF CLOSE-UP MAGIC

While your wedding breakfast comes together, Pete moves quietly around the room, working table to table between courses and around the speeches. Cards appear where they shouldn't, minds get read, and a table that didn't know each other an hour ago is suddenly laughing together over how it's done.

It's built to work with your day, not against it. Pete reads the room, the running order and your toastmaster, entertaining guests during the exact moments that would otherwise be dead time, without ever competing with the meal or the microphone.

- ◆ Table-to-table close-up magic
- ◆ Works around your running order
- ◆ Suited to weddings of any size

Daytime or Evening Reception

£650

2 HOURS OF CLOSE-UP MAGIC

Whether it's a daytime drinks reception in the sunshine or the evening reception once the dancefloor is filling up, Pete moves naturally between your guests, striking up close-up magic and mind-reading with whoever he finds himself next to.

Small groups form around him without any invitation needed. Guests who arrived as strangers leave the conversation as new friends, still trying to work out what they just saw.

♠ Mix-and-mingle close-up magic

♠ Daytime drinks or evening celebration

♠ No stage, Pete simply joins the party

Wedding Breakfast & Reception

£800

4 HRS MAGIC + 1 HR WAITING

For couples who want magic woven through more of their day, this is the option most couples choose. Pete performs during your wedding breakfast, then returns to work the reception later on, with up to an hour of waiting time built in between, so timing never has to be exact.

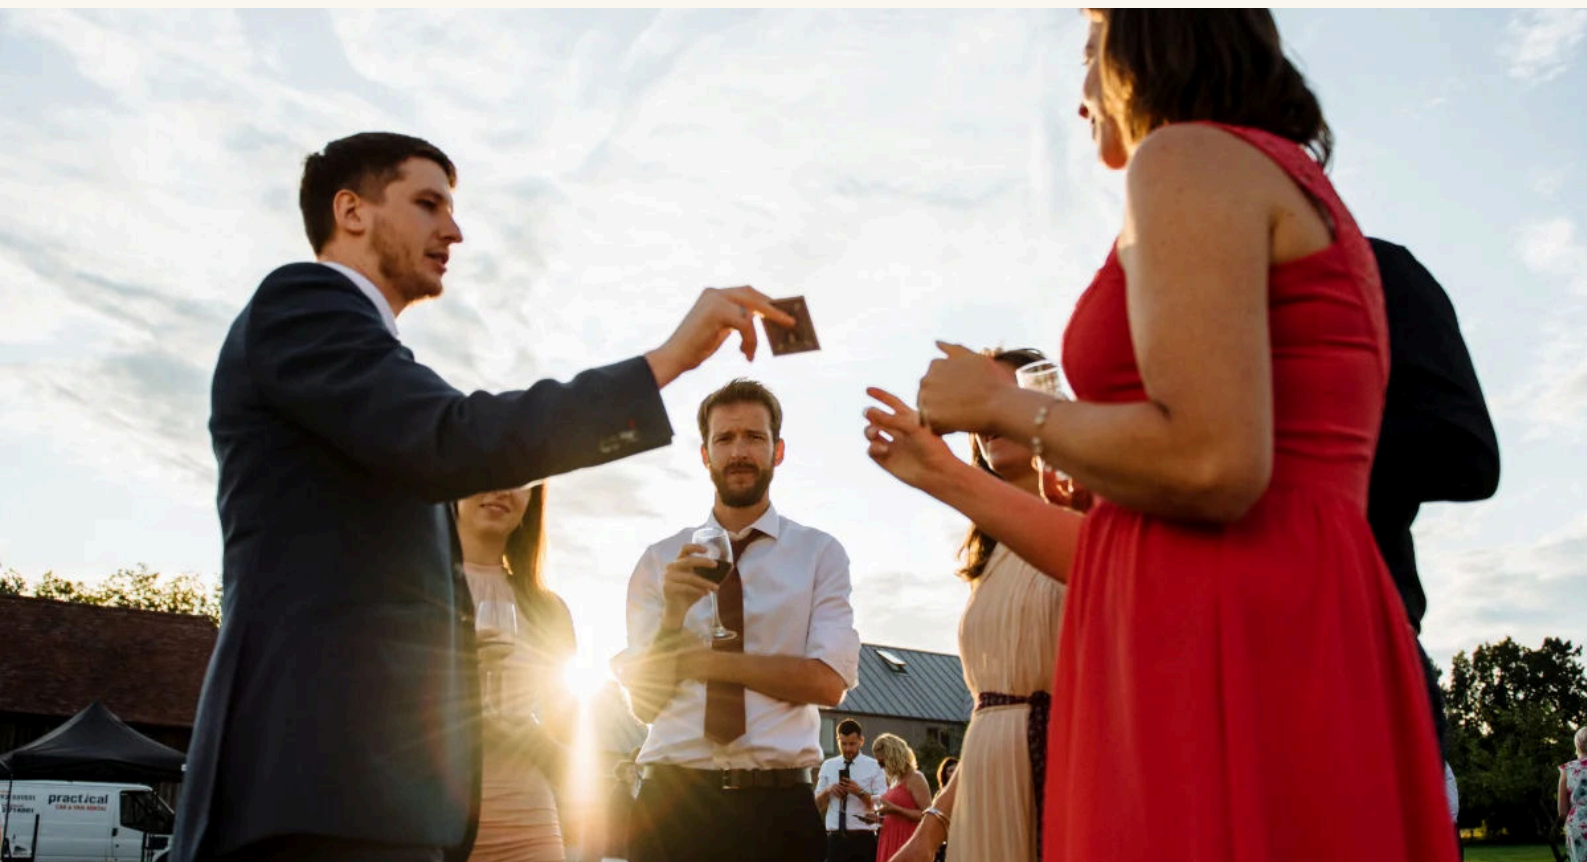

It means two of your wedding's key moments both get the full close-up magic experience, without needing to book two separate slots.

- ◆ 4 hours of performance across two parts of your day
- ◆ 1 hour of waiting time included

Photography Hour

£500

UP TO 1 HOUR

The moment you disappear for photographs is also the moment your guests are left with nothing to do. The Photography Hour solves exactly that.

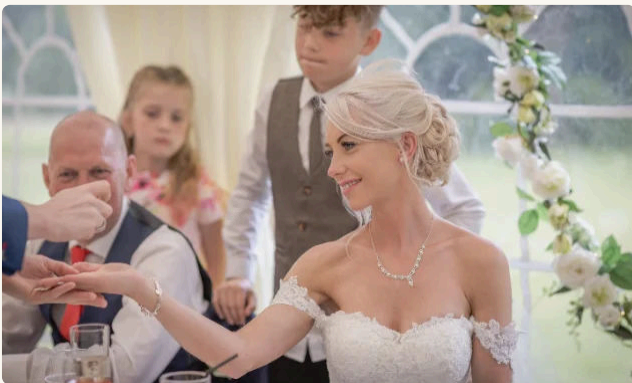

While you and your new spouse are away being photographed, Pete stays with your guests, keeping the drinks reception alive with close-up magic and mind-reading rather than letting it stall into small talk about the weather. By the time you're back, your guests won't have spent the last hour checking their watches. They'll be busy telling each other what they just saw.

Please note: Pete provides entertainment during this time, not photography.

What If The Magic Was Made For You?

+£150 Add-On

Every couple's story is different, and a handful of the tricks at your wedding can be too. Personalised Magic takes a detail from your relationship, your day, or a message from someone you love, and builds it directly into the performance, so the magic doesn't just entertain your guests, it belongs to you.

Personalised Surprise Gift

A gift is secretly prepared ahead of your wedding and magically produced during the performance, in front of you and your guests. What it is can be discussed and chosen together beforehand, so the moment it appears is a genuine surprise for the two of you.

Messages From Your Guests

Throughout the day, guests write personal messages to the two of you on playing cards as Pete performs around them. Every card is collected and brought together into one keepsake, handed to you at the end of the night: a physical record of the people who were there, in their own words.

Personalised Couple Keyrings

Keyrings for the two of you can be magically produced during the performance, personalised with details like your names, initials or your wedding date, something small to keep long after the confetti's been swept up.

And More...

These are simply starting points. Every idea below has been used to build a personalised piece of magic for a couple. Tell Pete about your story and he'll discuss what's practical.

Meet Pete

"I want your guests to feel like they were part of the magic, not just watching it happen."

Pete James is a professional close-up magician based in South East London, performing at weddings and events across London, Kent, Surrey and throughout the UK.

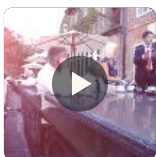

His style blends sleight of hand, impossible card magic and mind-reading with a friendly, confident approach that puts guests at ease rather than putting them on the spot. He's spent more than fifteen years learning what makes a room of strangers relax, laugh and lean in together, performing at hundreds of weddings and events along the way.

Book Pete and you're getting someone who treats your wedding with the same care he'd want for his own: turning up early, reading the room, and quietly making sure the magic fits around your day rather than the other way round.
